

Disability Confident employers

Finding employers who welcome disabled people

SEND | Choosing an employer

? What is Disability Confident?

Disability Confident is a government scheme. Employers sign up to show they're committed to recruiting and keeping disabled people. There are three levels: Committed, Employer and Leader.

How to spot one

- Look for the Disability Confident logo on job adverts and careers sites
- Look for a statement about adjustments in the application process
- Check the government's list of Disability Confident employers

What it can mean for you

- The employer has thought about inclusive recruitment
- Some offer an interview to disabled applicants who meet the minimum criteria for the job
- You can expect them to discuss adjustments

Where next? Evenbreak job board · Telling an employer about a disability — www.tags.careers/guides.html